PRIDE FESTIVAL - SPECIAL ISSUE

THIS YEAR'S PRIDE FESTIVAL THEME IS EMBRACE DIVERSITY

EPISCOPAL DIOCESE SIGNS ON TO ANTI-DISCRIMINATION

Bishop Paul Marshall has contacted the Valley Free Press to say that he personally and as representative of the Episcopal Diocese of Bethlehem (which represents the 14 counties in the Northeastern section of PA) will sign on to the VFP Statement of Anti-Discrimination (see page 8).

Bishop Marshall also stated that he would be willing to attend government hearings to speak in favor of legislation which would provide legal non-discrimination protection for people based on sexual orientation. "You can hold my feet to the fire on this, I will definitely speak in favor of these protections," said the Bishop in a VFP phone interview. In fact, it has been the policy of the National Episcopal Church that people be free from discrimination based on sexual orientation, since 1976.

VFP thanks the LV GLBT Episcopal organization Integrity for working with the Bishop on this important issue.

GAY MEN'S CHORUS CONCERT

Lehigh Valley Gay Men's Chorus will present "North and South Together," on Saturday June 23, at the Wesley United Methodist Church, 2540 N. Center St., Bethlehem, PA. The Hampton Roads Men's Chorus will be performing as special guests. The concert begins at 8 pm. A silent auction, with proceeds to the LVGMC's operating fund, will be held throughout the evening. Donation: $12 adults and $6 for students / seniors. Purchase tickets at the Pride Festival or call 610-366-3320.

PRIMARY ELECTION RESULTS

Seven of the eight candidates endorsed by PA-GALA won their primary races and will go on to the general election race in the fall. PA-GALA chooses to endorse only those candidates who support GLBT issues, or in cases where both candidates show support, PA-GALA endorses the candidate based on the level and duration of commitment to equal rights. Since the primary election is a race within parties, PA-GALA may actually endorse a Democrat and a Republican running for the same office, as the best choice within their party.

Matt Croslis- Dem. Nominee, Lehigh County Executive
Jane Ervin- Rep. Nominee, Lehigh County Executive
Dan McCarthy- Dem. Nominee, Lehigh Cnty Commiss.
Roy Afflerbach- Dem Nominee, Allentown Mayor
Gail Hoover- Dem Nominee, Allentown City Council
Julio Guridy- Dem Nominee, Allentown City Council
Joe Brennan- Dem Nominee, Northampton Cnty Council

GAIL HOOVER WINS PRIMARY

Our community's candidate Gail Hoover has passed the first obstacle in her election to Allentown City Council by winning the Primary on May 15. VFP congratulates Gail and wishes her all the best in the coming months during her campaign for the general election.

VALLEY FREE PRESS IS 3 YEARS OLD

PRIDE PARADE'S GRAND MARSHALL

Since the first Lehigh Valley Pride Festival seven years ago, our local GLBT community has seen tremendous political progress at the state and local levels. I'm very proud to have been a part of it.

As you all know, there is still a great deal of work to be done. We must not settle for anything less than full equality, and we will not stop until it is achieved.

PFLAG PICNIC

The 4th annual PFLAG picnic will be held at Ilse and Allan's house on July 8, beginning at 3 pm. Bring a potluck dish or dessert. All are welcome, bring family and friends, and a blanket or lawn chair. For directions email:

Valley Free Press does not discriminate on the basises listed in the anti-discrimination statement on page 8, and asks that organizations requesting VFP to publish information maintain a similar policy.

COMING OUT TO YOUR KIDS

I came out to my 5-year-old daughter the other day. She took it well, all things considered.

I was very nervous, actually, and not quite prepared for the discussion. I was hoping when I started seeing someone special that she and my 3-year-old son would just absorb the information by osmosis. I surround my family with diversity and I use the words "lesbian" and "gay" in context but I'd never actually said the words "I'm a lesbian" to her so she would know, without a doubt, what that meant. I was ok with that. I figured I'd go into it more when it would directly affect her world.

So there we all were, cruising around in blissful ignorance and denial, and then she asked me why people get married. We were literally cruising, actually. We were in the car. So I see her expression, except for brief glances in the rearview mirror. I took a deep breath. And I decided to answer that question. And only that question. So I said something like, "Well, sometimes people love each other so much that they want to be a family together and so they decide to get married."

Pretty general and inclusive, I thought, and patted myself on the back. And I was wishing for the simpler times when you could say, "When a man and woman love each other and want to make a baby, then they get married." Then I came to my senses, thank goodness. And I realized I was being homophobic and I couldn't just leave this topic without telling her the truth. The complete truth. So I asked her if she knew who could make a family together and she, much to my chagrin, promptly said that it would be a boy and a girl. I told her that two women could make a family and two men could make a family. I also told her that they weren't allowed to marry but that they could have a special ceremony to celebrate their love with family and friends. After a quick check in the mirror I could see that she was still with me. So I asked her if she knew what it was called when one woman loves another in a way that makes a family. She said she didn't. I said, "They are called Lesbians." My heart started to pound and I took two deep breaths and said, "Did you know that I am a lesbian?" She said "Oh." I waited a few moments and then asked, rather inanely, "Is that ok with you?" She said "Yup."

I know that being a lesbian is not just about wanting to be with another woman sexually, but it is also a crucial part of my identity. I am a lesbian, even if I'm not in a relationship. I am a woman who loves other women. I need to share this with my children or else I run the risk of teaching them the very homophobic and narrow-minded behaviors that oppress us everyday. It's not just about walking the walk. It's also about talking the talk.

VALLEY WIDE GLBT YOUTH GROUP GETS THE GREEN LIGHT

A new GLBT youth group is being formed and will begin meeting at the UUCLV in the fall. The group will provide a safe, supportive environment for gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender teens and their friends to meet weekly and participate in social activities including dances, movie nights, plays, and community marches and pride festivals. This group will serve a great need in the community because other local GLBT youth groups do not include social activities or are only for students in a specific school.

This new GLBT youth group will be run by the Welcoming Congregation Committee of the UUCLV with Tracy Denton and Ilse Stoll Zinnes serving as Program Directors. Meetings and events will be facilitated by adult volunteers who will complete a screening process and attend periodic training sessions. Tracy Denton says,

RAGS TO RICHES TAKE THE FIRST STEP

by Denise McKelvey

Dear Denise, I'd like to invest in a way that supports the GLBT community and with concern for other social issues. How do I do it? Signed, Doing The Right Thing

Dear DTRT, When investing from a socially conscious point of view, you must take several things into consideration. What are your major concerns? What companies and funds match your values? Will these investments help you meet your financial goals?

The internet has made it easier to find information about socially conscious investments. For instance, the Social Investment Forum (www.socialinvest.org), a Washington-based nonprofit group, provides information on mutual funds that screen out investments in certain types of companies.

Click on "Mutual Fund Screens Chart," at the Social Investment Forum's home page and you'll flip to a page that lists screened funds by investment category -- domestic and international stocks, bonds or balanced funds. Next to each fund listing, the chart notes which of seven common social "screens" (environment, labor/employment, product/services, defense/weapons, "sins," animal testing and human rights/equality issues) that fund uses. It also shows minimum investments and toll-free phone numbers for each fund. The chart doesn't provide enough detail on the funds' philosophies for one-stop-shopping, but it does give investors the opportunity to do some research and maneuver to other sites for more information.

The Meyers Pride Value Fund is a no-load mid-cap value fund concerned with GLBT issues. But you must decide if you need a no-load mid-cap value fund in your portfolio.

Socially conscious investors have long had several choices in mutual funds, but few by major fund companies. That changed last year when Vanguard Calvert Social Index Fund, TIAA-CREF Social Equity Fund and Friends Ivory Social Awareness Fund became available.

There are good socially conscious investments out there, but you must decide what type of investments you need and how socially conscious you want to be. My opinion is that rate of return should not be the only criteria for choosing a fund or removing it from your portfolio. It is wise to diversify. Value, Utilities, Technology, Financial, and Health Care funds may all be favorable in your overall portfolio and long term strategy.

Denise McKelvey is a local personal financial advisor. Information in this article is one person's opinion and may not be appropriate for your financial situation.

"Working with Ilse, The Welcoming Congregation Committee and the UUCLV board has been an encouraging and positive experience. I applaud the UUCLV for taking this important step to support a part of the community that desperately needs it."

Although the group will meet at the UUCLV, participants do not have to be members of the UUCLV or any church. The group is open to all GLBT youth and their friends and is not religious in nature.

Adults over the age of 25 interested in volunteering should contact Tracy Denton at <welshdenton@rcn.com> or Ilse Stoll Zinnes at <zinnes@fast.net> or call 610-797-6534. Funding for this group will come from grants, organizations, fundraisers and donations. If you wish to make a donation, mail a check made out to UUCLV, with a notation earmarking it for the GLBT Youth Group, to UUCLV, 424 Center St., Bethlehem PA 18018.

The first issue was about the Minisini Trails Boy Scout Council's new "don't ask, don't tell" policy for gay scouts and gay adult leaders. The issue had several sections of information including the actual written policy from the Council.

The youth publishing this e-paper, continue to remain fairly anonymous. VFP praises their effort and encourages this group to continue to pursue issues of interest to the GLBT youth community.

UNITARIANS, PFLAG AND HOME DEPOT

The National Unitarian Universalist Association pushed Home Depot's envelop last month when news of Home Depot's decision to refrain from adding the words sexual orientation to its non-discrimination policy was made public. In response the UUC Association alerted Home Depot to a shareholder proposal asking the company to amend its non-discrimination policy, which the company did.

After Home Depot put the new policy into effect, PFLAG's national organization and Home Depot joined in a project to celebrate Father's Day and honor love and tolerance by rewarding $100 contributions to PFLAG with a special Home Depot, Father's Day gift certificate to the donor's designated Dad.

Though there has been some anti-gay backlash, the story is a testament to UUC, PFLAG and the individuals within those organizations and at Home Depot who recognize that positive change requires action.

PRIDE OF THE LEHIGH VALLEY

Pride of the Lehigh Valley was formed in 1993 by a small group of concerned Lehigh Valley citizens, who were inspired after attending a Washington D.C. civil rights march. The motivation behind starting this group was to provide a much-needed positive and welcoming space for local gays and lesbians. Their initial goal was to hold a "Pride Festival" with the hopes of increasing tolerance and acceptance of gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender (GLBT) people everywhere.

Since its formation, Pride of the Lehigh Valley has held seven annual Pride Festivals, two annual Pride Parades, and an annual film festival. It has hosted dances, concerts, photo exhibits, plays as well as many other educational and cultural events ALL show casing and celebrating the talents of GLBT people both in the Lehigh Valley area and beyond.

Pride of LV also serves the community in many other capacities. It functions as a valuable resource to the community by providing a safe space for GLBT people to learn about GLBT-friendly organizations and businesses -- through their annual printed "Pride Guide", their web site and email announcements, at the festival itself, as well as at other events.

Pride of LV's mission is the advancement of GLBT rights and pride through community outreach, to be achieved through events and activities aimed at:

- I. Raising community awareness and understanding by increasing the positive visibility of GLBT people throughout the Lehigh Valley.

2. Celebrating the contributions of GLBT persons in art, music, literature, film, religion, education, history, family life, sports and community activities.

3. Promoting community resources available to GLBT people in the Lehigh Valley

4. Celebrating the diversity and encouraging unity within the GLBT community.

5. Creating a positive atmosphere in which people will be encouraged to "come out" so each person may realize their full potential as a GLBT person.

FAMILY NOTES

Jeanette and Pat in New Jersey report that the pending adoption of a baby girl from Guatemala in about 4-5 months, has made the older supportive generation of their family into "SUPER GRANDPARENTS."

Jeanette's mother, father and aunt (all in their 70s) took them out to buy a crib and some other baby stuff. To every salesman they encountered, Jeanette's Mom exclaimed, "they're going to have a baby!" Of course it took the salesperson a few minutes to register that the soon to be parents were two women. Once that was clear, jubilant congratulations were passed around with genuine sincerity. One thing has become increasingly apparent to Pat and Jeanette. A child changes everything for everybody in every way. Stay tuned.

TRANSGENDER CONFERENCE

Jim Palmquist, Vice President of LV-PFLAG attended the Affirmation Council meetings. The event included an informal reception, introductions, a keynote speech, a musical concert and a transgender panel discussion.

NEWS BITES

Many mainstream media outlets covered a recent study by Dr. Robert Spitzer which seemed to indicate that gay men and lesbians with a sincere desire to change their sexual orientation could do so. However, much of the data was refuted by scientists who quickly showed that the subject group was drawn in many cases from ex-gay ministry programs and was very small. The finding also showed that even within this highly motivated group, less than half of the subjects were able to "change."

Canada's, "national post today" shows : 55% support equal marriage for same sex couples nationally. Among 18-29 year olds the support is 73%.

Last month the US Census Bureau released statistics that indicated there is a significant rise in unmarried couples nation wide. Allentown shows a higher increase than the national average. Analysts and journalists seem to be stumped by this unexpected increase. GLBT activists have tried to point out that this latest census allowed same-sex couples to be counted for the first time.

At Work: A total of 86 percent of AT&T's shareholders voted against removing sexual orientation from the company's written non-discrimination policy.

Memorial to Gay Veterans: For the first time in US history, gay veterans will be recognized with a war memorial in Desert Memorial Park in Cathedral City, California.

BSA Policy=Suicide: The 1,600 member Rhode Island Medical Society adopted a resolution last week saying that discrimination like the Boy Scouts of America's policy of excluding gays contributes to the higher rate of suicide among homosexual youth.

A new Gallup poll on American attitudes toward homosexuality shows public support continues to build for equal opportunity in the workplace and recognition of relationships. Of the Americans polled, 85 percent support equal opportunity in the workplace, 54 percent think homosexual relations between consenting adults should be legal, while 52 percent believe homosexuality is an acceptable "alternative lifestyle." Further, 44 percent favor allowing gay and lesbian couples to form civil unions and receive some legal rights of married couples.

Hawaii will soon become the 26th state to include sexual orientation in a state hate crimes law.

An anti-gay "Defense of marriage Act" has failed on the Louisiana Senate floor. If the bill had passed it could have prohibited the state from recognizing civil unions or domestic partnerships formed in other states.

In April the Arizona legislature approved a repeal of the state's cohabitation, sodomy and non-procreational sex act law. The Bill was sponsored by openly gay State Representative Steve May.

The Communications Workers Union (AT&T, Lucent, Agere) has decided to stop their support of the Boy Scouts of America. They are also urging their members to stop being involved. (From LV-PFLAG Newsletter)

WORLD PREMIER OF VIDEO

This new video that confronts ignorance and homophobia in the church documents the stories of local activist Roberta Kreider ( member of Lehigh Valley PFLAG) and Mary Lou Wallner, from devastation to empowerment when confronted with the myriad of issues that resulted from the deaths of their gay and lesbian family members. Both women are from religious backgrounds that condemn homosexuality as a sin, and both tried unsuccessfully to reconcile their loved ones' homosexuality with the judgmental religion of their childhood.

They are both now active in a faith which promotes acceptance and understanding of gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender individuals. The screening will be held at The Center for Sexuality and Religion, 987 Old Eagle School Road - Suite 719, Wayne, PA on June 17 at 5:30 pm. RSVP to Helen Heineman at hheineman@remed.com.

The video can be purchased for $29.95 along with a study guide. To order call (610) 989-0198. Profits will be used to fund new ventures that promote equality for God's gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender children. Funding and support were provided for this video by Central Baptist Church in Wayne, PA, the Concerned mission group, and many individuals within the congregation.

PA-GALA IS

PA-GALA, The Pennsylvania Gay and Lesbian Alliance for Political Action, is the largest gay and lesbian voter information and lobbying group in the state. With nearly 1000 paid members and a comprehensive mailing list of nearly 40,000 people statewide, including 3500 in the greater Lehigh Valley. The Lehigh Valley Branch is the strongest branch of the organization.

Amazingly, PA-GALA, does it all on a budget built from $20 memberships and small Rainbow Team contributions, few in excess of $50. PA-GALA can receive grants or corporate funding because it is a lobbying organization..

When the Hate Crimes Bill begins to move in the legislature, PA-GALA is there lobbying for its passage. When the Mayor of Allentown tries to remove civil rights from police and fire fighters, PA-GALA is there stopping the action. Whether a candidate runs for local school board or US Senator, PA-GALA is there, finding out if they'll defend your rights and in some cases, whether they've lied about their support. PA-GALA gets the information to voters in the GLBT community through direct mail of the candidate guide "Gay and Lesbian Vote."

PA-GALA is the only organization lobbying for GLBT rights in the Lehigh Valley and the only one that mails you the voter information you need. To become a PA-GALA member, see page 8 of this paper. Lehigh Valley members of PA-GALA receive a subscription to this newspaper. You can join now at this festival, at the PA-GALA booth.

Many local groups mentioned in this paper meet in the UUCLV Church at 424 Center St. in Bethlehem.

UUCLV is also well known for its activism in pro-environment, pro-civil rights and multicultural causes. Those who seek a spiritual environment that may or may not be grounded in traditional religion, but encourages exploration and a quest for understanding, may find UUCLV the perfect spiritual home. # STEVE BLACK IS PARADE GRAND MARSHALL

Pride has honored Steve Black by choosing him to be the Grand Marshall of the Third Annual Gay Pride Parade.

Steve Black has been a longtime gay political activist in the Lehigh Valley and State-wide community. In the early 1990s he represented this half of the state, within a small gay and lesbian voter organization based in Pittsburgh. Four years ago Steve, with the help of Liz Bradbury, Trish Sullivan, Gail Erich and a few others, formed PA-GALA, the Pennsylvania Gay and Lesbian Alliance for political action. Steve created the mission statement, wrote the by-laws, and even coined the name, saying, "I want this political group to be known as an Alliance to show we are inclusive of all people dedicated to fighting for GLBT rights."

In just a few years PA-GALA has become the largest GLBT political organization in the state with nearly one thousand paid members, and a mailing list of over 32,000 people. Steve maintains the mailing list himself, organizes mailings to candidates, chooses the issues and races that PA-GALA the candidate guide "Gay and other than those in the Lehigh other political and activist groups all Steve did, it would be a and responsibilities are much Steve is the primary GLBT Harrisburg for passage of the Hate legislation. He has been lobbying nearly a decade. During the week two days lobbying the State Senate Bill. When this Bill passes (it will be State of PA that recognizes the people), it will be because of the work of Steve Black. Though others have also worked on this Bill, it is Steve who mobilized voters across the State to write, email, call and visit their Representatives in Harrisburg and it is this grassroots lobbying that is the actual catalyst that changes politicians minds. Steve Black is the one who best understands the Harrisburg political dynamics, he is the one we all turn to for a clear picture of what is really happening and how to actually get things done. And remember, though Steve spends at least part of every day working on GLBT rights issues, everything Steve does is as a volunteer.

 A DECADE

Last year, the State Democratic Committee finally recognized the significance of GLBT PA voters and agreed to allowing five openly gay or lesbian people to run for delegate to the National Democratic Convention in L.A. The 15th Congressional District (Lehigh Valley) would be allowed, for the first time in history, to have one openly gay delegate. All the person had to do was, get signatures to get on the ballot, run a campaign, and win (and then pay for the trip).

A caucus of Lehigh Valley GLBT political leaders all agreed that Steve would be the one to run. Steve's background in political activism came into play for this campaign. He gathered the most signatures, and in a field of twelve candidates, Steve came in third, behind only the head of the Lehigh County Democratic Committee and a State Senator. Steve is the first openly gay person to win an election in the Lehigh Valley.

Congratulations to Steve Black for this honor, when it comes to GLBT politics in the Lehigh Valley, and in fact, in the State of Pennsylvania, there is no one who deserves it more. If there were five, or maybe just three more people like Steve Black in PA, we'd probably have a Civil Union law in this State!

NYC PRIDE PARADE

GLISN is going to march in the NYC Gay Pride Parade in New York City on Sunday, June 24. The GLISN bus will leave at 10:00 am from Bethlehem. A designated meeting place will be assigned to depart NYC by 8:00 pm. Cost to you is $7.00, plus a tip for the bus driver. 14 seats are available (first come first served) to those in the community interested in attending the parade.

GLISN, the GLBT support group at Dun & Bradstreet is sponsoring this trip. To attend or for more information, email Scot Laubner at <laubners@dnb.com>.

POINT - COUNTER POINT

BY STEPHEN AND JASON

THE QUEERING OF AMERICA?

POINT by Stephen Libby

A 21 year old lesbian asked me, "why do older gays 'freak' when we use the word queer?" She seemed freaked by the freaking adults. I explained that queer, in its original form meant something different, strange or out of the norm. When the labeling of homosexuals began in the late 19th century, queer began to be used to mean those who would rather keep company with members of their own gender.

Queer became the word most dreaded in social circles. To be called queer was to be labeled different. Whether or not it was originally meant to inflict pain, it was not long before it was used to single out those who were, "theatrical, light in their loafers, tom-boyish, artistic," and those are the nice words. Being taunted by the Q-word became very scary.

But in the mid 1980's gay activist groups like ACT-UP and Queer Nation reclaimed the word queer as our own. It may have been to make the straight population uncomfortable, an in-your-face attitude. Using their word to describe ourselves, we were throwing it back in their faces. A word that meant we were different from them, actually empowered us.

FOR ME THE WORD QUEER IS INCLUSIVE OF US ALL...

SAYS STEPHEN

QUEER HAS A NASTY RING TO IT...

SAYS JASON

COUNTER POINT by Jason Coble

As a 24 year old openly gay male, I have to say I don't think the word "queer" is very empowering. I understand completely that regaining strength from something that has been used to hurt people for so long is a good thing, but I think the word queer itself is demeaning. It is not only used for people who are GLBT, but also for things that are considered "not right," abnormal, "funny," or strange. I'm not comfortable being put into any of those categories. Queer has a nasty ring to it. Whether it comes from another member of the GLBT community, or is yelled out by a passing bigot, it isn't pleasant in any way.

I have been lucky that my family, and friends are all very accepting of my sexual orientation. I am sure they too would find it hurtful to hear someone use the word queer to describe me.

I think the word has too many negative connotations to even try to find a way to "take it back." What an odd idea that is... "let's take a word that has been cruelly demeaning to our community for a hundred years, and use it to describe ourselves? I feel that's like saying, "hey, I know the definition of the word is hateful and all, but I think if I use it to describe myself, its less hateful?" Wrong. Same definition, just another voice saying it. I can understand the idea of making it seem like hearing the word is less bothersome to us, but the word spawned from hate. Nothing can change its history of hurting many generations of gay men and lesbians.

The dictionary's definition of queer is: Deviating from the expected normal. Strange. Even the analogies for the word are negative: odd, strange, giddy, faint, deranged, shady, counterfeit. I just don't see how using this word for ourselves is helping out our cause.

What's That About?

Readers write or email "What's That About" editors with questions about gay and lesbian issues.

One reader asked on one of the VFP Surveys: "What about doing a restaurant review?" Another survey respondent suggests: "Perhaps there could be a travel column about GLBT friendly vacations spots."

VFP Editors respond: Thanks for the terrific idea. We would love to have a restaurant review and a travel column. The columns could possibly rotate from month to month. Not only would we want to rate trips or eateries on quality and ambience, but we know VFP readers would especially want to know whether GLBT people feel welcome and comfortable there.

We need someone who is willing to write the column on a monthly basis, or willing to be responsible to find other people who are willing to write about their experiences and submit them on a regular basis to the paper. If you are interested in writing one of these columns on a regular basis for the VFP, call or email us and let's talk about the possibilities. (610-432-5449 <liztrish@aol.com>)

ROBERTA KREIDER BEGINS NEW BOOK

FLAG member, Roberta Kreider, editor of a book that contains the faith stories of gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender people, is currently working on a new collection of stories about GLBT couples and their faith and spiritual journeys.

"I have about thirty stories from couples for this new book," says Roberta in an interview with VFP last Sunday, "Three are from Lehigh Valley couples." She hopes the book, which is to be called, "Together in Love; Faith Stories of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, and Transgender Couples," will be ready for publication in about a year.

COMMUNITY MOURNS JANET T. MARKEE

Trish and I attended the very moving service at MCC celebrating the life of Janet T. Markee. We realized that four years ago we happened to be at the first Lehigh Valley Lesbians meeting Janet attended when she moved back to the area and where she met her partner Nadine. Janet was a dedicated activist, she joined PA-GALA that night with a generous Rainbow Team contribution asking us to identify her on the contributor page as, "Janet is back." Just a few days before she died she sent a contribution to Gail Hoover's campaign.

Many people at the service mentioned Janet's passion and delight for birds. A Lutheran Minister friend told how Janet's bird Honey frequently perched on Janet's shoulder and sometimes left little "presents" there which Janet took in stride as part of her relationship with nature.

While there was great joy in the service, there was also sadness and Trish and I felt it deeply as we walked to our van. But once we got there, we couldn't help laughing over the fact that while we had been in the church the van had been completely covered with bird poop. We couldn't help rejoicing in this reminder of something Janet seemed to fully understand. That the cycle of life and spirit has, among other things, a pretty good sense of humor.

A VIEW FROM A DYKE BY LIZ BRADBURY

RANTS, PEEVES, AND HOPE

The Wealth Myth: Do gays make more money than straights? No, it's a myth created by our own community. Gay magazines have perpetuated this fallacy to help sell advertising to mainstream companies. But the myth hurts us. It implies we don't have kids. It implies we are actually "better off" in the workplace than straight people. It's based on a stereotypical profile that we are all highly educated, highly paiduppies living in dual income households with no family obligations and money to burn. In reality it is loyalty not wealth that steers our spending. We support corporations that have pro-GLBT policies and shun those who are anti-GLBT. That is actually one of our biggest strengths.

Annoying Neighbors: If you think you have annoying, messy, neighbors, what if you were Canada? Here in the US, the CEO of ALCOA, Paul O'Neill, earned 56 million dollars last year while Alcoa was rated the #1 corporation for polluting the environment. So how do we punish this guy? The President appoints him the Secretary of the Treasury.

AIDS on the rise. Why?: A number of articles in the mainstream press tout an increase in HIV/AIDS cases among young gay males. Actually, it's on the rise in all populations of young people. AIDS activists fault the makers of AIDS medications for their photo ads that imply AIDS victims will look like buff pin-up boys by simply taking a pill.

PA-GALA sees another factor. Questionnaires to school board candidates show a significant number are anti-AIDS education. Many teens are not allowed to learn how not to get AIDS. This is just one way GLBT people and other minorities are discriminated against every day. Honest education is the key to ending the AIDS epidemic. We must insist that all schools teach AIDS education without bigotry.

When people say... "I never thought I'd turn out to be an activist until this happened to me." I tend to think, where the heck were they before "it happened to them"? It's Pride month, so take some time to recognize the efforts of those who work for the community, simply because it's the right thing to do.

Meanwhile, keep in mind that the religious right "tithes" its members into giving 10% of their yearly income to pseudo religious organizations whose mission is to insure that all GLBT people are denied basic human rights and condemned as immoral child molesting sinners. How much of your income or time do you donate to support the efforts of groups that fight for your rights? If you aren't a member of PA-GALA, or don't support candidates or organizations that support GLBT rights, who do you expect to do it for you? Don't wait until you get fired, or arrested, or are a victim of a hate crime to say, "I never thought I'd be an activist until..."

For our kids: GLBT kids deserve the same kind of experiences as straight kids. They must be allowed to meet, to plan dances and trips, get a boyfriend or girlfriend, have gay, lesbian and transgender adult role models, and learn that people like them have achieved incredible and wonderful things.

GLBT kids can't always rely on their parents to support them. Some will even be victims of family violence. It is the obligation of the entire adult GLBT community to become the families for our youth. Trish and I pledge VFP for at least one fund raiser a year for the new Lehigh Valley Youth Group. I hope other groups pledge their support as well. Pride itself could use this festival as a fund raiser for that group. How much more empowering would it be if all the efforts ultimately raised money and support for GLBT youth.

ANOTHER VIEW FROM ANOTHER DYKE BY TRISH SULLIVAN

Lehigh Valley PFLAG made its first presentation of information about GLBT youth to public school teachers, staff and parents at Liberty High School in Bethlehem in April. Don Kohn, Donna Massare and Eric Yurkanin were the speakers and attending the presentation were members of the Liberty High School gay-straight alliance, several parents and members of the Liberty High School Staff.

Don Kohn, President of LV PFLAG, who spearheaded this project, began by talking about why derogatory comments have no place in schools. He described the profiles of the perpetrators of several tragic school shootings and reminded the audience that in each case the shooters were harassed and ridiculed by other students.

Donna Massare spoke about her experiences as an out lesbian attending a Catholic school for girls in the 1970s. Donna, a popular student who was elected to the student council, felt no discrimination or harassment from other students. She says, however, that the staff and faculty spoke openly against homosexuality and pointed to her as an example. She observed that the students who attended the PFLAG discussion at Liberty were bright, self-assured and out, and like herself have and will probably continue to deal positively with their sexual orientation. But she also noted that for programs like these to make a real difference, schools must make all students participate because teens who need the most support are probably unlikely to voluntarily attend.

VFP: Why did you choose to speak out now?

Eric: One Sunday evening at church (MCCLV), one of my students from a few years ago, attended for the first time. After service we talked briefly. He told me that coming to terms with his own orientation would have been much easier if he had known I was gay, too. I became a teacher to have a positive affect on others -- this was the first time I realized that being out could have that kind of positive affect on my students.

VFP: What are some ways schools can help and support gay and lesbian youth?

Eric: I hear too many people using words like "homo" or "fag" in derogatory ways or telling jokes that use gays as the punch line. I wish more teachers were trained in tolerance and not afraid to use their knowledge in front of their students. Teachers and students need to stop such comments and explain why they are inappropriate and unacceptable. I think we could all do a lot of "good" by just stopping the "bad" ( and bad-mouthing) around us.

VFP: What can the gay and lesbian community do to help make the high school experience better for the gay and lesbian youth?

Eric: As I mentioned earlier, my one student would have just wanted me to be out -- that's all. He needed someone to identify with. I would have had to do nothing but be myself. And so that's my advice: Be yourself, be a role model.

VFP: Are there any other thoughts you would like to share with the readers of the Valley Free Press?

Eric: Deciding to speak at Liberty was difficult, but it proved to be one of the most incredible experiences I have ever had. I can say that I have truly started to make a difference in my life and the lives of others.

VFP congratulates LV-PFLAG for going into the public school system with their message of diversity and acceptance. As for Donna and Eric, what greater service could anyone do for the community than serve as healthy, successful role models for our youth.

LV-PFLAG has established a speaker's bureau to continue this program in the Lehigh Valley schools. To volunteer, contact LV-PFLAG at 610-967-5219, or stop by their booth today at the Pride Festival.

"We don't want to know who they are."

-Lee R. Raymond, chairman and CEO of Exxon Mobil Corp., in response to a reporter's question May 30 about why the company does not actively reach out to gay and lesbian employees as it does to other employees.

HRC and other GLBT activist groups have called for a boycott of Exxon Mobil.

WHAT'S PRIDE GOT TO DO WITH IT?

...Because many of us can be "invisible" as GLBT people if we choose, these (Pride Festival) events are our community's unique opportunity to display our diversity, to show the public and each other - who we are. They are also an occasion to acknowledge our successes and plan for the work that is yet to be done.

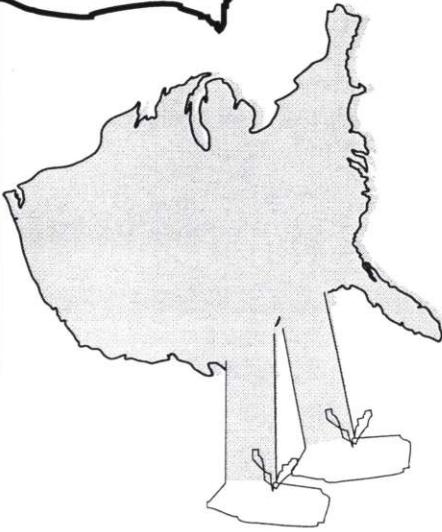

Candace Gingrich, HRC Project Manager

INTERNATIONAL PRIDE THEME

Celebrate Diversity is the international theme for this year's 8th Annual Lehigh Valley Pride Festival and for GLBT Pride Festivals happening throughout the month of June all over the world. Congratulations to Pride President Allyson Hamm and the LV Pride Board from the Valley Free Press, on the achievement of this important celebration of our community's Pride!
